Indian Village & West Village

West Village is a historic district roughly bounded by Jefferson, Kercheval, Parker, and Seyburn Avenues in Detroit, Michigan. Adjacent to the west is the Islandview neighborhood, and adjacent to the east is Indian Village. West Village is a primarily residential neighborhood containing 275 single and two-family houses, thirty apartment buildings, and about twenty commercial structures spread over 20 square blocks. Buildings are uniformly set back from the curb, and a great number of architectural styles are represented, including frame Queen Anne houses, and Tudor, Colonial Revival, and Mediterranean Revival houses as well as Georgian Revival and Jacobean apartment buildings.

The neighborhood of West Village continues to evolve, as illustrated by the number of condominium, retail, and rental developments that have been built in the vicinity, as well as high-end restaurants. These restaurants include Marrow, Detroit Vegan Soul, Craft Work, and Red Hook.
